

Knox came out swinging against Forest Hill in Melbourne Winter Baseball League action, but failed to put the runs on the board. Knox went down 11-7 in a see-sawing affair, which started with the Falcons taking a 3-0 lead after two innings. League leaders Forest Hill bounced back in the fourth innings with seven runs. Despite the best efforts of Matt Barnsley [pictured] at short stop, Forest Hill was able to put plenty of pressure on the Falcons' defence. Knox fought back late in the game with four runs but it was too late to trouble Forest Hill. Barnsley showed his worth with bat and ball, including a slick double play to first. "The boys hit very well," Falcons coach Leon Rice said. "It's just our hits didn't always find the gaps." Rice is confident the side can regroup before hosting La Trobe University at 2.50pm on Saturday.

Source: Knox Journal – Wednesday, May 19, 2010.